A MESSAGE FROM THE Visit Rainier President

Fall at Mt. Rainier is such a special time. Most visitors don't fully know what they're in for when it comes to our fall colors. They really are like no other. You will see Alder and Maple trees turn colors just as expected, but perhaps more notable is the low bushes and ground vegetation in the mountains that put on an unexpectedly remarkable display of color. You will see an amazing variety of fall colors highlighted by our evergreen trees, which is always a pleasant surprise. Trails in the fall tend to be less crowded and the hot and dusty summer is gone, so it's a great time to take advantage of some of our most comfortable hiking conditions. It's no wonder the fall is many people's favorite time of year to be out exploring in the Pacific Northwest.

Mt. Rainier National Park is one of the crown jewels of the National Park System and a true treasure of the nation. At Visit Rainier, we're here to help you get the most out of your visit to the Mt. Rainier region, whether you're visiting for the first time or the 50th. We're your go-to resource for experiencing this incredibly diverse region—from snow-capped mountains and glaciers to deep river valleys, rain forests, ski resorts, scenic drives, trails, meadows, waterfalls, vistas, gateway communities and much more. Lodging options. Recreational activities. Area events. Restaurants. Trails. And beyond. We keep tabs on it all for you.

I'll be out enjoying the fall foliage, and I hope you will too. If you have any questions or comments, we'd love to hear from you at info@visitrainier.com.

Dee Patterson is the President of the Board and a founding board member of the nonprofit tourism organization, Visit Rainier. He is the General Manager for Crystal Mountain Hotels and enjoys living and working in the Pacific Northwest.

TOP 10 FALL EXPERIENCES

Color discovered.

Summer may be over, but that's no reason to hang up your hiking boots. In fact, fall proves to be the most hikeable season of all. The trail dust settles, the summer crowds dissipate, the temps are ideal for a hike, and you're rewarded with a spectacular display of color as the trees and bushes transition to their fall wardrobe. The following pages are filled with fall hikes and other attractions not to miss this year. You'll want to stay on or around the mountain to get the full experience, so be sure to take a look at page 31 for help locating the latest travel deals to make your stay as affordable and enjoyable as possible. After all, you deserve more than a day trip. Every season is Rainier season, and if you love colorful hikes, fall's one season not to miss. Here's to an active fall.

Scenic Drives

Enjoy a drive on a scenic byway

You don't have to leave the car to see the fall colors around Mt. Rainier. The Chinook Byway and the White Pass Scenic Byway promise sweeping views of lush forests, shining lakes, rumbling rivers, cascading waterfalls and, yes, magical fall colors. With several turnouts and overlooks, you can stop to take a photo and a longer look at some of nature's finest work. The Chinook byway typically closes in mid-November, so be sure to check its status before you hop in your car.

Take a closer look at the Chinook and White Pass byways:

Take a hike

Up here, “take a hike” is a compliment. With so many beautiful trails, deciding which ones to take can be overwhelming. That’s why we’ve forged ahead for you, narrowing down our favorite hikes and outlining what to expect, including how long you’ll hike, how high you’ll climb, and what you’ll see along the way. Be sure to add as many of our top 10 fall hikes to your list as you can so you’re able to enjoy the special beauty that is Mt. Rainier this time of year.

Top 10 Fall Hikes

There’s a reason they call it “fall”ing in love. If you’ve been to Rainier in the fall, you’ll know exactly what we mean. We’ve taken the guesswork out of where to hike this fall by creating our list of the top ten hikes. We recommend booking somewhere cozy and conquering them all. Below is our top 10. For more details on each of these hikes, go to visitrainier.com/top-10-fall-hikes.

Reflection Lakes

Moderate / Paradise Area: On a clear day, intense fall light reflects from lakes bordered with gold-threaded leaves of hellebore scattered amidst grasses mingled with asters and royal-blue gentians.

The Moraine Trail

Easy / Paradise Area: If you’re looking for tranquility, you’ll find it here. This trail offers a more desolate setting and a better chance of encountering wildlife.

Third Burroughs

Strenuous / Sunrise Area: If you’re up for the challenge, this hike will reward you with views of glacial ponds and the gleaming flanks of Mt. Rainier. Choose from three trails, depending on how adventurous you’re feeling.

Knapsack Pass

Moderate / Mowich Lake Area: This one's a beaut. Go from forest to meadow to mossy goodness to boulder field and beyond, and enjoy every last step. You may encounter snow or ice, so trekking poles and traction devices are advised.

Grove of the Patriarchs

Easy / Ohanapecosh Area: Ah, there's something special about old-growth forest. This easy hike leads you to an ancient grove of trees, where benches invite quiet contemplation. It's a special place that really should be on your list. Trust us on this one.

Sheep Lake/Sourdough Gap

Easy / Chinook Pass Area: While your legs won't be working hard on this hike, your eyes will be busy taking in all the scenery. Lakes. Forests. Far-flung views of Adams, Hood and Helens. It's all here.

Crystal Peak

Moderate / Chinook Pass Area: The mountain and lake views on this hike are hard to beat. It's worth the effort you'll put in to reach the rocky ridgeline.

Grand Park

Moderate / Sunrise Area: Everything the name implies, this "grand" hike takes you through a majestic meadow on a plateau with wraparound views. Fall is elk mating season, so you may see these magical creatures along the way.

Naches Loop

Moderate / Chinook Pass Area: This hike rewards you with views of sparking tarns, meadows, Mt. Rainier, Naches Peak and mountain ash with red-orange berries.

Alta Vista Trail

Easy / Paradise Area: Last on our list but by no means least, Alta Vista is a 1.5 mile loop that's suitable for all ages and abilities. Keep an eye out for marmots as they prepare for winter, and enjoy views of meadows burning with fall color.

Explore the Mt. Tahoma Trails Association

Got the hiking bug? Good news. Mount Tahoma Trails Association operates and manages the largest no-fee Hut-to-Hut Trail System in North America for cross-country skiing and snowshoeing. Well-equipped with solar electric lights, propane fireplaces and full kitchen facilities, you've got what you need for a comfortable stay, including water. Just bring a sleeping bag, food, and warm clothes.

See wildlife at Mt. Rainier National Park and Northwest Trek.

Fall is the best season to spot elk and deer in the park. As summer turns into fall, marmots, pikas, golden-mantled ground squirrels and chipmunks are their most visible. Cuteness overload! And mountain goats can be seen most of the year, but stay at higher altitudes in the winter. Overall, there are 63 species of mammals, 16 species of amphibians and five species of reptiles waiting to be seen at Mt. Rainier. Seeing wildlife will likely be one of your most memorable experiences at Mt. Rainier. Of course, we ask you to keep the wildlife wild by not touching, feeding or approaching any animals. For more tips, including how to see animals – and the best times to see them – go to visitrainier.com/wildlife-viewing.

VACATION PLANNERS FOR EVERY SEASON

A Vacation Planner for Every Season—including one for your four-legged friends!

Rainier is always in season. No matter the time of year, you can count on the Mt. Rainier area to deliver new adventure opportunities. And you can count on Visit Rainier to provide Free Vacation Planners to help you plan your seasonal adventures. From fall colors to winter snow play, spring waterfalls, and summer wildflowers, keep an eye out for our next vacation planner. We even have a new dog-friendly vacation guide, so you can plan a vacation with your best friend.

GET THE MOST OUT OF YOUR FALL TRIP:

- Seasonal areas will begin to close (Sunrise, White River, Ohanapecosh, Box Canyon) in October. Check the Park's Twitter account for gate opening updates.
- Check road status. State Routes 123 and 410 remain open and provide great opportunities for visitors to see the fall colors.
- The Ohanapecosh Visitor Center, Henry M. Jackson Visitor Center, and Longmire and White River Wilderness Information Centers remain open through early October.
- The road to Sunrise will remain open through that date, then close to vehicle traffic at the White River Campground gate. Bicyclists and hikers are allowed to continue to use the road unless otherwise posted.
- At Paradise, the Henry M. Jackson Visitor Center, Paradise Camp Deli and Gift Shop will transition to their winter schedule, opening on weekends and holidays only after October 8. Visitor Center hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The historic Paradise Inn closes for the season on October 1.
- The National Park Inn and General Store and the Longmire Museum are open daily throughout the year.
- Weather conditions can change rapidly in the mountains during this time of the year. Wear layers and prepare for inclement weather or possible ice and snow on park roads.
- Conditions on the trail can change. Pack the "Essential 10" when hiking the trails.
